Aiming for the Stars

Dear Parents, Carers and Children,

We made it. No that sounds like we have crossed the finish line of the end of term limping and exhausted where in fact we finished with a roar of triumph due to the fantastic effort of the children, the dedication of teachers, governors and the PTFA and the tremendous support by parents and the wider community. The Christmas Fayre was a great success and that was followed this week by three heart-warming performances to a packed house. As always the children amazed us with their ability to piece together an accomplished show with very little practise and many had to cover for others that were not able to make evening shows. It was also kind of the PTFA to offer to put on refreshments and it was great to see the huge range of really high quality prizes (over 50) that they had sourced for the raffle. I'm sure they would all like to join me in thanking you all for the support you gave which has resulted in over a £1000 being raised for the school! It has also resulted in me being the proud owner of a red scooter which has now done several laps of the school as I gate-crashed the class parties yesterday afternoon.

Even though it was the last week of a busy term our youngest children still managed to take a break from rehearsing and took part in a multi skills festival at CSIA on Monday. Mrs Kent has had further success with her PE Co-ordinating role; helping the school to achieve a silver Sainsbury's games award. On Thursday we were visited by George Eustices's personal assistant Mr Penhaligon who was pleased to award Tehya with a highly commended award for her design of a Christmas card, her design on the back of the card will be delivered to our Prime Minister.

All in all it has been an action packed seven weeks and it is yet again hard to believe how much we have fitted in, it is now time for some well earned recuperation, but rest assured teachers are already busy designing their creative learning spaces and immersive learning experiences to excite children next year. I hope you have a fantastic festive period and look forward to seeing you all in the new year.

Mr L Gardiner
